The last thing to be written is usually the executive summary - which should appear at the front of the business plan. Even if this is all brand new to you, think about any transferable skills youeÁÁÁve developed, life experiences youeÁÁÁve had or training youeÁÁÁve completed that may be useful.Your target customers, market and competition: A summary of key insights that demonstrate you have a strong understanding of your customers (and how to identify them), your market (and how to position yourself within it) and your competitors (and how to differentiate yourself from them on factors like price, quality, brand etc).Á ÁYour sales and marketing plans: This section is all about how you are planning to attract customers. Sometimes these are broken down as short, mid and long-term goals, but it helps if theyeÁÁÁre measurable (how will you know if you have achieved this?) and realistic (can you achieve this with the money, resources and time you have?).Á ÁIf you are applying for a Start Up Loan, you will of course also need to detail how you intend to use the money if youeÁÁÁre successful. To find out more, see our FAQs. A Business Plan is a written document that describes your core business objectives and how you plan to achieve them over a set period of time. A Business Plan often includes information about your goals, strategies, marketing and sales plans and financial forecasts. Remember, weeÁÁÁre not looking to see every single detail about how your business will operate, rather we just need to know enough information to give us confidence that you have a clear plan in place.
